

The Daily Courant.

Wednesday, September 2. 1702.

From the Amsterdam Courant, Dated Sept. 2.

Rome, Aug. 12.

THE Pope having made some new Bishops in the Kingdom of Naples, intended to have empower'd them to exercise their Function by virtue of a Breviate, instead of a Bull, because the latter must have given the King of Spain the title of King of Naples; but His Holiness being given to understand that the King of Spain will not suffer any such Persons to take Possession of their Bishopricks on any other terms than the usual Forms, that Project is laid aside. Cardinal Ottoboni having receiv'd advice that the Revenue of an Abby, which he has in the Dutchy of Milan, amounting to 6000 Crowns per annum, is seiz'd and appropriated to the Use of the Army of the 2 Crowns, complain'd of it to Cardinal Janson, who return'd him this Answer, That it became him to remember that it was the King of France who plac'd his Uncle in the Papal Chair, and rais'd himself to the dignity of a Cardinal. The Count of Tholouse when he went ashore at Palermo, took the upper hand of Cardinal Giudice, the Viceroy of Sicily; which is not only highly resented by the Nobility of that Island, but has likewise given offence to the Sacred College here, because the Ceremonial does not allow of it. Signior de la Tremouille, Auditor of the Rota, is gone from hence to Naples, with Instructions from the King of Spain, to examine those that are under Confinement there on account of Rebellious Designs or Practices, and to Punish them as their Crimes deserve. 'Tis said the Duke of Agrippa, Brother in Law to the Governor of Barri, and 25 other Persons are imprison'd there. Captain Forlini who was sent to inspect the Aqueducts at Civita Vecchia, is return'd, and has made his report to the Pope, that those Works may be finish'd for 60000 Crowns, by the end of November, or beginning of December next; and 'tis thought His Holiness will consent to be at this charge to bring those Aqueducts to Perfection, in the carrying on of which immense Summs have been expended by his Predecessors.

From the Leyden Gazette, Dated Aug. 31.

Venice, Aug. 18. The Duke of Sermoneta is gone from hence to Vienna. The Princess of Mirandola has taken refuge here.

'Tis said Prince Eugene of Savoy exclaims against the Duke of Modena, for that he would not receive Garrisons of Imperialists into Reggio and Modena, on pretence that his own Militia would defend them to the last Extremitie, and yet has suffer'd the King of Spain to take Possession of them without striking a stroke: And from Milan of the 9th they write, that the Duke of Modena, before he retir'd to Bologna, sent the Keys of his City to the King of Spain.

From the Amsterdam Courant, Dat. Sept. 2.

Schaffhuysen, Aug. 23. The Magistrates of Basil have sent Deputies to the French Ambassador, and to the Court of France, and have likewise written to the Intendant of Alsatia, to remonstrate, that for 4 Weeks past there had been a stop put to the bringing of Corn into that City out of Alsatia; that this Prohibition is grounded on a pretence that the Town of Basil had refus'd to furnish the French with Lime for Building the little Fort on the Island in the Rhine; but that this Pretence is utterly false: however they are not to expect any redress, because the French mean to mortify them for levying 2 Companies for the Service of the Emperor, which Companies are not cloath'd yet.

Basil, Aug. 23. Monsieur de Bombelles, the Major of Hunninghen, is just now arriv'd here, to give notice to our Magistrates, that the French resolve to post themselves within our Territory, on the place where stood the Fort of Hunninghen that was razed; and that their Grenadiers were already on their March. He likewise complain'd that they permitted German Officers to come upon our Ground not far from the little Island in the Rhine; and warn'd them to forbid our Citizens to frequent that place, for that the French would not be answerable for killing any of them in firing at the Germans.

From the Harlem Courant, Dat. Sept. 2.

Genova, Aug. 8. Tartans arrive here daily from Provence with Ammunition and Provisions for the French Army, among them one with 900 Soldiers on Board bound for Naples. 'Tis reported that several Algerine Ships with 4 Gallies, and 18 Barks with 100 Men in each, are put to Sea; and that the Gallies of the Great Duke are cruising about Corfica to oppose them.

There are two Mails wanting from Holland.
